Try this with that -- restaurants that swing with wine and food

September 20, 2007

Dinner can get boring when your food goes steady with a single type of wine. Happily, tasting menus and wine pairings will turn your palate into a swinger.

Il Grano

Il Grano claims to be one of the first L.A. restaurants to use an Enomatic machine to ensure the perfect pour and guard against oxidation. That's why if you want a 12-course tasting menu with wine pairings, sommelier Peter Birmingham will gladly oblige.

* Five-course tasting menu with wine pairings, $110. 11359 Santa Monica Blvd. West L.A., (310) 477-7886.
