Father-daughter team Tony and Marisa May have renamed, relocated and reopened their Italian fine-dining institution, formerly known as San Domenico NY. The modern trilevel space overlooking Madison Square Park features the stylings of San Domenico executive chef Odette Fada. She and chef de cuisine Matteo Bergamini tested an updated menu while travelling through Italy (and simultaneously filming an Italian TV show about their adventure). Dishes—such as butternut-squash gnocchi with chicken liver and fried sage—can be ordered in either small or large sizes. A 70-seat wine bar and lounge holds an Enomatic wine-preservation system, so that 24 selections from the 10,000-bottle list can be offered by the glass. 19 E 26th St between Fifth and Madison Aves (212-265-5959)
